PROFILE

As a third-year Industrial Engineering student at Eindhoven University of Technology (TU/e), I am passionate about solving complex problems and optimizing processes. Throughout my studies, I have developed strong analytical and technical skills, enabling me to bridge the gap between people, technology, mathematics, and business.

In addition to my studies, I am highly interested in how organizations are managed and how day-to-day processes can be improved in a smart and efficient way. I enjoy working with others, quickly absorb new information, and approach tasks in a structured and detail-oriented manner. In a professional environment, I am eager to apply these qualities to create value and contribute to effective solutions. Let's work together.
